1. Basic financial steps for successful living

In today's society, there is a great need for the sharing of financial principles and processes. Less than 25% of adults in the US have more than $500 in savings in the bank. Over 70% of adults have over $20,000 in credit card debt. Few families have discretionary income or investments outside of a company sponsored 401k. This site will present the basic principles needed for money management, no matter what status or age you are at in life.

2. Basic steps for healthy living

No matter how successful you are in life, if you do not have your health, you will not be able to enjoy it. Knowledge is power, and many people do not understand the benefits of a balanced diet, preventative medicine, or an active lifestyle. The health information within this site will provide facts, trends, and suggestions for a healthy lifestyle.

3. Why education is so important

We all have dreams and goals in life. To achieve them, we each will need education. Whether it is a college degree, a certification, or skilled training, certified learning is the only pathway to a career that can support your family and provide options. In this site, various aspects and levels of the education process will be displayed and discussed to inform and inspire people to pursue their dreams through education.

Services

1. To help with improving your finances, it may wise to consult a financial consultant. They help clients accomplish financial objectives by assessing their financial situation, developing and presenting financial strategies and plans, and monitoring changes in financial status and life circumstances. Financial consultants' salaries range from $65,000 to $135,000. On average, they have a bachelor's and master's degree with a CFC (certified financial consultant) certification.
2. The true means to obtain wealth is through investments and profitable opportunities. Investments are the allocation of money in expectation of a benefit in the future (ie stock market, real estate, bonds, entrepreneurship). A profitable opportunity is a situation where the results are far greater than the required investment (ie college admission, job promotion, franchising). By positioning yourself to be able to invest and take advantage of opportunities that may come along, you increase your chances to acquire wealth.
